Afternoon Tea

The Story of Afternoon Tea

Step into elegance with our timeless tradition of Afternoon Tea, a ritual steeped in history and sophistication.

Originating in the early 19th century, Afternoon Tea was first introduced by Anna, the 7th Duchess of Bedford, as a mid-afternoon treat to bridge the long hours between lunch and dinner. What began as a simple gathering, soon became a fashionable pastime among the English aristocracy.

Today, this cherished tradition remains a symbol of British culture and hospitality, lovingly revived and celebrated at One Warwick Park Hotel.

Indulge in a sumptuous selection of delicate finger sandwiches, freshly baked scones with clotted cream and delicious preserves, and a tempting array of hand-crafted cakes and pastries. Treat yourself to a little more luxury by upgrading your experience with a glass of Prosecco or Champagne.

Join us for a moment of indulgence and a taste of history, nestled in the heart of Royal Tunbridge Wells. Book your Afternoon Tea today.

Our Local Ingredients

We curate our Afternoon Tea using locally sourced ingredients to celebrate the rich agricultural heritage of Kent, while supporting the local community. Fresh, seasonal goods – such as cream and cheeses from Kentish dairies, and preserves made with locally grown fruit – ensures exceptional quality and flavour.

This approach not only reduces the environmental impact of transport but also promotes sustainability, connecting our guests to the area's unique character.
